THE CITY

LucVi / Shutterstock.com

Associated to wine and the pleasures of life like no other city, Bordeaux is the kingdom of the grape. Wine bars, wine merchants and over a hundred winery castles through all around Bordeaux. Wine is drunk and tasted but is also used for health purposes through wine therapy—a spa treatment using grape extract, said to be beneficial for the body.

The beautiful Baroque buildings which were once erected in the city centre to conceal the slums have made Bordeaux famous for its architecture. On top of its historic charm and presence, the city has built a modern character with brand new futuristic buildings, modern transports and a town life becoming trendier everyday. With its well organized river banks, structured squared and pedestrian streets, this city on the Garonne is a pleasure to walk through, whether it is to visit, shop or taste the French gastronomy. In Bordeaux there is always plenty to do and too much to see.

DO & SEE

goodluz / Shutterstock.com

History, sights, landmarks, architecture, arts and tons of activities have turned Bordeaux in a beautiful and exciting city. Consistently renewing itself, for example with the recent construction of the Cité du Vin, Bordeaux is typical and modern at the same time, with sights and entertainments for everyone. One thing is for sure: hold on to your camera, because everything here is highly photogenic!

Port of the Moon

Bordeaux stands majestically on the Garonne river. The harbour, because of its curved shaped has inherited the poetic name of 'Port of the Moon'. It figures among the Unesco world heritage list for its outstanding architecture and its long lasting role in human and commercial exchanges.

vsl / Shutterstock.com

Bordeaux's cuisine offers as many flavours as its wines, and they are a perfect match for each other. Marry your favorite red or white with one of the city's culinary specialty: lobster, oysters, Pauilla clam, Aquitaine beef, Entrecôte "à la Bordelaise" and the list goes on.

If your mouth is not watering yet, step into one of the following restaurants and we guarantee it will.

L'Absinthe de Gilles

Simple and authentic, L'Absinthe de Gilles is ideal for an aperitif at the bar or a dinner. The dishes are original and offer variety, simple or more sophisticated, sea-food or meat. The restaurant also has a very nice outdoor area open in the summer months. The chef is very involved and the service nice.

La Tupina

La Turpina is perhaps Bordeaux's most famous restaurant. Opened in 1968 by Jean-Pierre Xiradakis, whom still runs the place, it has not stopped receiving praises for the quality and finesse of its food, its desserts and its wines and the perfection of its service. The decor is what a textbook French restaurant should look like, with its open fire and farmhouse feel.

The owner has opened five more restaurants in the same street.
